NEW YORK PERALD, SATURDAY, JUNE 17, 1865.

Test Pennsy Tayony or Printage Wolumb

F. siles.—The complaint in this case sets forth that the plaintiffs were copartners, doing business in this city, and that on or about the 24th of March, 1866, they sold the complaint of the city of the city. to the defendant, on his credit, certain goods, to the value of $170.24; that these goods were delivered to the write of the defendant, and that the defendant refused to value of $176 28; that these goods were delivered to the write of the defendant, and that the defendant refused to pay for the same or for any part thereof. The answer set up was rather curious. The defendant denied that the goods were sold on his credit, and also that he had any wife at all at the time of the sale. He admitted that on or about the 29th of September, 1863, the form of a marriage ceremony was performed between him and one Julia Ann Farrell, who represented herself as the wilow of one Jeptha Farrell; but set forth that subsequently he (the defendant) discovered that the said Jeptha Farrell was still living, and therefore commenced a suit for divorce in the Supreme Court, which sait is now pending; that the divorce suit was commenced before the alleged sale of goods, and that the said Julia Ann Farrell hed left his house voluntarily, and had no authority to contract any bills or incur any liability on his behalf; that the marriage solemnized betwen him and the said Julia Ann Farrell was bigamous and therefore utterly null and void, and that for these reasons he (the defendant) was in no wise responsible or liable to the plaintiffs for the goods sold to a person not his wife nor his agent.

The Court ruled that for the purposes of the suit the fact that Julia Ann Farrell had another husband living could have no weight, as ac oourt had decreed that the second marriage was lilegal and void. That part of the suswer was therefore stricken out. The counsel for the plaintiff further contended that the liability of the defendant, as husband, was not relieved by the voluntary separation of his wife from him, on the ground that he had been guilty of cruel conduct, which justified her departure from his house. The testimony produced showed that the plaintiff and his wife moved in fashionable circles, living in an expensive manner at the Metropolitan Hotel and at Santoga, and that on enabled that her husband had come home drunk, "licked her and pulled out a handful of her husband a few days after on account o
